UPDATE 8TH NOVEMBER 2009

Since our last post we have realised many of our previous forecasts coming into fruition. The main topics of interest noted by our keen members were the re-emergence of the swine flu, the market starting to run out of steam and the reason for the huge run up in the global equity markets around the world.

We don't enjoy people falling for the traps of the government. The constant stream of lies, their cheating, and these crooks steal to get what they want. When the green shoots were talked about by some of the worlds leading financial instruments. What was really going on behind the scenes was pure chaos. They painted the picture of these so called 'green shoots', sprouting, when they were trying to save the dying weed and the brown rotting shoots in the first place.

As humans with jobs, we wake up each morning, have a shower, eat breakfast and then head off to work. We come home at 5pm eat dinner and go to bed to repeat the same process day in day out.

It seems that at the end of 2009, with so many people now getting retrenched or out of a work, even the people with those monotonous routines are not complaining. WHY? Because at least these people are just happy they have a job to go to.

You constantly hear that phrase, "we are living in interesting times!" Something that has many meanings, but its something we have not heard for a long time.

But as I got out of bed this morning I thought to myself that quote would be an understatement of the year.

The lies that are thrown at us day by day are stranger than one of those pick and choose your own adventure books. Those in charge know that people are locked in to their monotonous routines and refuse to tell them things they don't want to hear.

Time and time we were subjected to messages confirming it was goodbye to the recession that was, yet now, people are slowly realising that when they wake up & look down the street and drive around their neighbourhood, there is little evidence of what they are hearing on the news at night.

What people don't seem to realise is that the leaders around the world are correct! Yes the recession is now over, because we are now greeting the new great depression that our forecasts have seem to be indicating for a long time.

Yes, the great depression 2.0 is here and lays on our doorstep and will be here to stay for a while. If you get a general feeling that our economies will crash world wide, much more than it already has then your instincts serve you well. We see this as both a positive and negative, as many of our readers know. It is a very complex topic that we will continue to touch on down the track.

As of the 15th of October, Bank closings this year have now passed 100. Regulators have shut down small banks in Florida and Georgia and many other states in the US. The failures are now the most since 1992 during the Savings and Loans crisis.

Since 2008 governments were going to all lengths and making it their infatuation to prop up the financial & global markets with more money.

Did it work? Problem solved? NO WAY!

Just as a drug addict has a habit of throwing their body into a self induced coma...these Governments and their big bailout packages and use of creative lies were used in the same way to throw the economy and people into a self induced state of euphoria. While people gave a sigh of relief, they didn't realise that underneath the shiny surface, those in charge were not fixing the real problems.

While this euphoria drug may have worked short term the icing has now been scooped off the cake, and as we forecast back in July the reality of what has been happening for the last decade is hitting main street (you and me) extremely hard. The little guys that previously couldn't care less, now have their back to the wall, their ears pricked and are starting to scratch their heads and ask themselves the question of what is 'really' going on?

Those higher up did everything in their power to set off these chain of events. Pumping up of the global markets along with big bankers bonuses and in their selfishness did not want the little guy to know what the consequences would be down the track. Yet it was only natural they were coming down the track anyway.

These events do nothing for the little guy. They only serve to protect those already in power. Yes to make the rich, richer. And in turn set up the little guys (and all of us) for failure. Now the little guy has gone from being sad, to being mad. They want answers and they are not getting them. So we have some important set of issues and event that will now transpire as the crash of 08' will soon fast turn into the collapse of 2009 / 2010

Given the dire state of the global economy and the fact our collective economic situation has gotten significantly worse, as we previously forecasted, now people are slowing trying to figure it all out. For the ones that have woken up to what has really been going on, they are in shock. The main reason.... they were told we are in the middle of a economic recovery....

YET, really.....we're in the middle of a 'COVER-UP', NOT A RECOVERY!

Foreclosures are increasing, shops are going bankrupt, and unemployment is worsening as jobs continue to disappear. The middle class in trouble, the cooking of books, and fake earning reports being released. Rich stock market traders in bed with governments, dirty wall street games, and the deceitful ponzi schemes that have been going on for decades are starting to come to light.

While the rich got even richer, the little guys on main street got cut up and are bleeding, and it seems tension is building. The physical and mental toll has built up in many and people and they have simply had enough! People young and old now want answers. But do you think they are getting them?. NO!

It is interesting how all this is playing out. And yes we do live in interesting times. History does have a strange way of repeating itself!

Whether it is a complex series of patterns that are always destined to play out in a numbered order, or just simply a cycle relative to timelines you be the judge. One thing is for certain is that we are again dealing with history rolling over and repeating yet AGAIN!.

So....

Welcome to the Great Depression 2.0 ...

HOW PEOPLE MADE MONEY IN THE LAST DEPRESSION...

I have been getting a lot of emails from people worried about their business in the coming economic depression. Heck One person even offered me a large sum of money to teach him how not to go bankrupt!

Not good! I don't know anything about his business, or his clients. I don't know the abilities of his employees and most of all I don't know who his target audience is.

Instead I will pass on some very precise info that is responsible for making money in any market, any business, anywhere around the globe.

The best thing is, the simple plans I am about to reveal will work for any business regardless if the economy is thriving or has gone into the stink hole...sound familiar??

The key to becoming successful is SIMPLE! no...MAKE THAT BRAIN DEAD SIMPLE...and should be followed down to the tee.

1) FIND A HUNGRY MARKET

2) FIND OUT WHAT THEY ARE BUYING!

3) CREATE A SIMILAR PRODUCT OR SERVICE
& MAKE IT BETTER

4) SELL THIS TO THE SAME MARKET

5) WATCH THE $ START ROLLING IN

Sounds crazy, NO! pure commonsense.

I tell people this all the time and they tell me that there is too much competition. and it won't work!!!

BOGUS!... I SAY IF SOMETHING IS SELLING WELL all you have to do is stand in front of some of these people and offer your great product or service and you will SUCCEED beyond your wildest dreams.

GO TO WHERE THE MONEY IS ALREADY BEING SPENT OR WHERE THE MONEY IS FLOWING TODAY!!

That way no matter what the economy is doing you are guaranteeing success & money before you even start... YES IT IS THAT POWERFUL!

If there are people having problems with training their dogs, and buying lots of these sorts of products, do you think selling a hamster training product is going to succeed if only one or two people are buying these sorts of things?.

Aggh...NO!

Give people more of what they want, and less of what they don't want...SIMPLE... but that small simple piece of information has turned broke people into some of the wealthiest people alive today.

Even if you have a business failing you can go out tomorrow and apply this info and you will see Some significant results immediately.

LAWS OF THE UNIVERSE?...

I would like to remind our subscribers, that we are all going to go through both and emotional and financial battle in the coming months. Some people will be tested and succeed others will simply not survive.

It is a clear case of mind over matter and what ever doesn't kill us, only makes us stronger. So your own preparation is important for the crazy times ahead. We are forecasting the winter to be full of roller coasters events. For some it will clearly be a 'Winter of horrors'

As forecasters what we see more clearly than ever is that we have to make choices between good and evil, light and dark. The veil between good and evil is really lifting, at least from our viewpoint. Especially in term of many truths being revealed about the government and powers that be that were once thought to just be a conspiracy. That old saying "Times are a changin'!" is an understatement of the year.

Each of us has to make some choices. Do we stay in our comfort zone and do nothing until forced to (making us prone to making poor choices) or do we actively try to grow mentally, spiritually and emotionally?

It is time to take a very hard and honest look at our lives and choices and find ways to grow in us and in our relationships with others. Some families are on the brink of simply falling apart, and there are people suffering in so many ways. It is no point just giving up. Too many are giving up, being beaten by hard circumstances; addictions, hatred, making bad choices, both personally and professionally that affect so many others.

Choosing the darkness is not that clear of a decision, it happens slowly, one mistake after another, one bend then another. Do you think a thief just suddenly makes that choice? NO. They become a thief, robber, mugger, burgler slowly and over time--no one is born that way no matter what someone tells you. It starts with that first small, petty theft, and continues unless stopped somehow or unless the person makes a conscious decision to stop stealing and live a better life, often because they were influenced by someone who cared enough about them to guide them.

A mass murderer, who often is mentally unbalanced to begin with, does not just kill. Many things go into that decision over time. What I am saying is that we must work very hard to help each other now. If we know someone who is starting to go down a road that leads to bad things, we must lovingly intervene; offer support, friendship and kindness. Not be blunt about it, but do things that you think could alter the path, because there are many people just sitting on the fence.

Every day we are in a battle between good and evil in our own minds. Do you want to honk at the person who cut you off, or just let it be? Do you want to say spiteful things to your family or coworkers or maybe instead you can try to find out what they are facing?

How can you help your neighbor or someone in trouble? It is time to dig deeper than we are and to learn how to be a positive influence in someone else's life instead of just a burden. The lines are being drawn. And will help in the transformation into the next age we see coming. There are some big changes that are coming down the track and this waking up in many people is just one part of the process.

Have you ever noticed that if you wake up and stub your toe, spill your breakfast down your clean clothes, your negative mental state can cause you to have a bad day where one thing just tailspins into a bad day of horrible events. Everyone has had one of those bad days. It is most likely cause you are in a bad headspace and negative emotional pattern that caused more negative things to occur around you.

Then there are the days when things just go well, perfectly, a good nights rest, refreshing morning, with nothing going wrong all throughout the day. There is a 90% chance that this occurred because of your positive mental state, attracted positive events around you.

Learn from it and do something positive because everything you do will influence your future and those around you in a big way even if you don't see it directly.

May your future bring great fortunes, happiness and success on all levels.
